DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

Claims 1 and 2 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

The preamble of claim 1 recites "forged material manufactured by adding at least one kind of group 5 metals" is indefinite because "group 5 metals" is unclear. If applicant meant to refer to the elements of group VB in the periodic table, then such should be recited. Also "...at a in the tempering temperature..." is awkwardly recited. Moreover, process claims need to actively recite steps, e.g. cooling, heating.

Claim 2 is indefinite because it recites "heating temperature of the forged material is set in the range of 1150 to 1250C", yet the heating step occurs before forging. Hence it is recommended to use language such as --heating temperature of the forging material ...---

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 1 and 2 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Fang et al (US Patent No. 4,812,182).

Fang et al discloses a forging steel material # 4 in Table 5 which contains V, and is subjected to heating, forging, air cooling, tempering (see lines 66 to 68, column 3, and lines 1 to 5, column 4) which closely meets the recited claims. Although the material heating temperature of 1150 to 1250C prior to forging is not disclosed by Fang et al, such would not be a patentable distinction. Note first that the prior art forged product finishing temperature is 850 to 1050C (see line 65 to 67, column 4). Hence, the starting temperature for forging can be higher than 1050C. Moreover, applicant has not demonstrated (e.g. by comparative test data) that the claimed forging temperature is somehow critical and productive of new and unexpected results. Hence the claims would not patentably distinguish over the prior art.

Furthermore, air cooling after tempering is not specifically disclosed, but would be inferred because it is conventional practice in the steel industry to cool finished product naturally in air.

Specification

The disclosure is objected to because of the following informalities: Line 6, page 5, "dubnium" is misspelled.

Appropriate correction is required.
